THE DAILY PROGRESS.

VOL. VI RALEIGH, SATURDAY, AUG. 26, 1865. NO. 242

THE NEWS.

—The revolution in Hayti progresses. A dispatch from Boston on the 21st says: By the arrival of the brig Example, at this port, we have advices from Cape Haytien to July 25. The rebels still held the place, sustaining a daily cannonading from the national troops who failed to inflict much damage, only three persons having been killed and a few houses damaged. It was thought that so long as the rebels could obtain a supply of ammunition and provisions, they could hold out.—A vessel recently ran in with a supply of provisions, although the port is blockaded by two steamers. Provisions were getting short in the city. There was only seven days supply on hand. The foreign Consuls attempted to mediate between the belligerents, but without success.—The lives of the American and English Consuls had been frequently threatened by the rebels, owing to their supposed sympathy with the cause of Geffrard.

—A Washington correspondent writes that Chief-Justice Chase had a long interview with President Johnson on Friday evening, at the White House.—It is generally understood that the subject under discussion was what disposition should be made of Jeff. Davis, whether he should be tried by a civil court or a military commission, and whether the trial should take place soon or be postponed till after the conclusion of the Wirz trial. What conclusion was arrived at, of course, is unknown to the outside world; but it is fair to infer that nothing will be done in Jeff's case until the Wirz trial is concluded.

—The President has requested the Attorney General to suspend the issue of warrants for pardon until further orders. This action has been taken in order to facilitate a general clearing up of the numerous and complicated petitions now before the President, to give him the opportunity to adopt some plan which will prevent unnecessary and shameful intervention by the pardon brokers

—A Washington dispatch of the 21st says:—The proceedings of the Mississippi State Convention are attracting much attention and comment here, and a general feeling prevails that the convention is doing all it can to keep the State out of the Union. The President, however, is known to have the highest confidence in Gov. Sharkey, and believes his loyalty and ability will give a proper direction to the affairs of that State.

—A witness called for the defence on the Wirz trial exhibited to various citizens of Washington on Monday the original commission issued to Jefferson Davis as a Second Lieutenant of Dragoons. It is signed by Andrew Jackson as President, and Lewis Cass as Secretary of War. The possessor of the parchment procured it at the home of Davis on the Mississippi.

—The pardon of Alexander Dudley, President of the York River railroad, has been revoked by the President. As the power of the President to revoke pardons, after they have been granted, is thus clearly set forth, those who procure the precious and coveted document had better not put on airs too soon.

—A subscription paper for the relief of Mr. Jeff Davis is having a poor run in Richmond. Had any one here prophesied such a thing a year ago, those who now carry the amnesty oath on their lips and treason in their hearts, would have called him a traitor.

—Some of the secession papers of the South are sneering because the Philadelphia Inquirer and the New York Herald are furnished Mr. Davis. Now if the matter were left to Jeff himself, we think he would much prefer those papers to his own secesh organs.

—General Logan, one of the bravest and best of the great host of patriotic civilians who have fought through the War, has resigned. In civil life he will maintain the principles for which he fought so gallantry on the field of battle.

—Ketchum is altogether the coolest defaulter of modern times. After stealing two or three millions from his father, he sent a note to him saying:—"Please take care of my wife and child; I have taken care of myself."

—It is said that a party of scientific gentlemen who have explored the gold mining region in Virginia, represent the interior of the State to be very rich in gold, silver, iron and other metals, in an undeveloped condition.

—Among the special pardons recently granted by the President was one to Cave Johnson, of Tennessee, formerly a member of the United States House of Representatives, and ex-Postmaster-General.

—The President has permitted ex-Congressman Henry C. Burnett of Kentucky to return to his home, and delivered to him his property. He has not yet been pardoned.

—It is reported that James Robinson, the great circus rider, was killed, a few days ago, in Southern Kentucky, by falling from his horse.

—Nine Scotchmen are employed as laborers on a farm near Norfolk, Va., to the exclusion of the negroes.

—Some of the Virginia papers are calling for an extra session of the Legislature of that State.

—Garroting is common in Richmond. A man was knocked down and robbed in the capitol square a few nights ago.

—Gen. Butler has not resigned his commission in the army, and it is not thought he will.

—Gen. Cheatham is in Washington in quest of pardon.

—Herschel V. Johnson of Georgia, was in Washington on the 21st.

—There was a serious fireman's riot in New York on the 20th, two persons being killed and many wounded.

—Robert Lincoln, son of the late President, is shortly to be married to a daughter of Secretary Harlan.

—Among the visitors at the President's house on Saturday was Lieut-Gen. Ewell of the late Rebel army.

"GOING WITH MY STATE"—TREASON UNDER THE PRETEXT OF DUTY.

John A. Gilmer, of North Carolina, whose explanatory letter concerning his past and present position we have published, says that he resisted secession until the act was accomplished, and then "conceived it a duty to yield to and obey the laws of my own Legislature." Mr. Gilmer is a representative man of a class of old Henry Clay Whigs of the South, who, after manfully struggling in and out of Congress against the enemies of the Union, went over to those enemies just as soon as they carried the outworks. It was a most extraordinary defection; and what is most amusing about it is that the excuse which is made for it embodies the very heresy which they had always before denied and denounced. Were these men to plead that they had not the nerve to stand out for the Union after its foes had gained possession of the State governments, we could see the force of that; for it is no more given for all men to be heroic than for all men to be wise. But, for shame's sake we suppose, that plea seems to be avoided. It is not fear, but duty which these men present as a reason.—This is sheer stultification; and, what is worse, it has "the primal curse upon it."

The very marrow of the whole secession doctrine lies in this assumption that a State Legislature or a State Convention, has a right to establish a duty in opposition to the Government of the United States. A duty implies an antecedent right to impose it.—If the Legislature of North Carolina had the right to require obedience from John A Gilmer to its law of the 11th of May, 1861, declaring that "treason shall consist only in levying war against the State, or in adhering to its enemies," and prohibiting, under the penalty of death, all professions of allegiance or fidelity to the Government of the United States, then it had the right to withdraw North Carolina from the United States, or to authorize a convention which should execute that act. Mr. Gilmer's plea of duty is equivalent to an assertion of the right of secession, in its whole length and breath.

The very legislators to whom Mr. Gilmer attributes this dispensing and absolving power had been sworn to support the Constitution of the United States, in compliance with the sixth article of that instrument, which provides that "the members of the several State Legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several States, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this constitution." In passing the laws which Mr. Gilmer adduces as his justification, they violated their oaths, and what they did was absolutely null and void. To treat it as possessed of a binding sanction is to tread into the dust the Constitution of the United States, which declares itself to be "the supreme law of the land," and do the act of an unqualified traitor.

We tell Mr. Gilmer, and all like him, who opposed, or professed to oppose secession, that this plea of the duty of "going with my State" is an insult to the understanding of every Union man. If they have nothing better to say for themselves they should either seal their mouths or quit the country. We think, however, that there were men in the South who, from the beginning to the end, remained true to the National Government, though it exposed them to persecution, poverty and death itself. The present President of the United States is one of that heroic number. This doctrine of "going with my State" they believed to be only a refuge for moral cowardice; and they had manhood enough to treat it with all the contempt it deserved. We do not care, however, to press upon Mr. Gilmer that invidious difference.—Let all that rest. It is no time for either personal or sectional upbraiding concerning the past. But now that Mr. Gilmer seeks again to reinstate himself as a Union man, we ask that he should adopt the true language of loyalty, and not cast into our faces apologies and justifications that are rank with the very spirit of secessionism.

The government to which these men are again swearing allegiance claims paramount authority. It recognizes no such thing as any State power to annul or set aside that authority. It does not require that the Southern States should repeal their secession ordinances, for the reason that it considers those ordinances absolute nullities, and therefore not a subject for repeal. Its whole plan of "reconstruction" is based entirely and precisely upon the principle that the States have never been out of the Union; and they have no power to put themselves out of the Union, and that the allegiance of their citizens is due primarily to the Union. That is the fixed principle of this government. It was what our fathers intended to secure when they established it. This war has settled it more firmly than ever. It has been cemented with the blood of a half-million of patriots, and it is now the very adamant in the foundations of the republic. There is no possibility of any Southern man living in this republic and yet not living upon that principle. Those who take the oath of allegiance commit themselves to it, and invoke not only human but divine penalties upon themselves if they hereafter fail to abide by it. If it does not suit them, and they are determined not to keep it, let them not dare to perjure their souls with a mockery of the oath. Let them quickly seek, in some other land, some other system of government that better fits their theories. Our belief is that this search will be in vain. Foolish as are many portions of the human race, we cannot suppose that any of them, outside of the moon-struck Southern Confederacy which has now vanished, have been so mad as to undertake to found a nation without authority, sovereign for the purposes of its own self-preservation. But if one of the late rebels think otherwise, and can be satisfied with nothing less, let them forthwith take to their travels.

WHAT MR. LINCOLN SAID.—Mr. Raymond, Mr. Lincoln's biographer, says, a few days before the attack was made on Fort Sumter, Mr. Lincoln said to Mr. Raymond that he wished he could get time to attend to the Southern question; he thought he knew what was wanted, and believed he could do something toward quieting the rising discontent, but the office seekers demanded all his time. "I am," said he "like a man so busy in letting rooms in one end of his house, that he can't stop to put out the fire that is burning the other."

The number of persons in Washington regularly and temporarily holding positions of trust and emolument under Government, or who are paid for transacting business with the government, is five thousand. Their average expenditure is one thousand dollars each, amounting to the total sum of five million dollars a year.

—Thirty Laplanders, dressed in furs and skins, accompanied by twenty Swedes, have arrived at St. Paul, to settle in Minnesota.

THE CITY.

FREEDMEN'S BUREAU, RALEIGH, N. C., August 25, 1865.—The following cases came before this Bureau to-day for adjudication:

Henry, (colored) complains that his former master has driven him off without paying him anything whatever, after saying to him that if he would stay and help to make the crop, he would do what was right.

Action: Wrote a note to the gentleman, giving him a slight idea of what was right, and telling him if the boy's statement was true, he must pay him good wages for the time he worked.

Washington, (colored) appeared to-day asking that a certificate be given him which would enable him to get his daughter. Gave him the necessary papers.

Sarah, (colored) complains that she has been working for a gentleman and that he has driven her off and will not pay her.

Action: Wrote note to the gentleman requesting his appearance at this office on the 1st or 2nd of September.

Henry (colored) complains that a gentleman has two of his children and will not give them up.

Action: Wrote the gentleman a note telling him that the father was entitled to his children, he being their lawful protecter, and that he must give them up.

Emma, (colored) complains that the gentleman for whom she has been at work has driven her off and will not pay her.

Action: Wrote the usual note telling him if the girl's story was true, he must pay her for the time she worked for him.

PROVOST COURT, Aug. 25.—Another quiet day. A few trivial complaints were heard and adjusted, but nothing of public importance transpired. Experience gives wisdom and our people are generally learning to behave themselves.

LOAFING.—There are many freemen and freedmen, white and black, lounging about the corners of the streets of this city doing nothing, complaining of the hard times, and waiting for something to turn up. Better go to work and turn it up.

THE large number of soldiers, citizens and strangers moving on our streets gives the city a lively appearance, but as all the soldiers but a very small garrison are to leave in a few days, we may expect to have it dull enough.

WE receive our latest northern dates through West's new depot, Fayetteville Street. The leading northern papers and periodicals may be had at his counter.

LARGE stocks of goods continue to be brought to this city, and are sold, notwithstanding everybody asserts there is no money. See the advertisements of merchants in the PROGRESS.

MR. WEST, of the News Depot, Fayetteville St., has our thanks for GODEY and HARPER for September. These popular works may be had at his counter.

THE chilly atmosphere of yesterday and day before, and threw a damper on the soda fountains, but a hot day will cause them to flourish again.

THE 3rd New York did not leave yesterday, but it is thought it will go to-morrow.

GOVERNOR HOLDEN returned to the city last evening.

MR. ADAMS of Davidson and Starbuck of Forsyth were in the city on Thursday.

Ten thousand acres of land have been leased to negroes in the vicinity of Vicksburg, the present year. There are two hundred and fifty or three hundred leases, and most of them have formed partnership with northern men to procure the means of stocking and farming their lands.

ARE THEY GOING?—We refer, reader, to your teeth. Be careful. Next to your eyes, your teeth are the most precious of your facial organs. Use the fragrant ZOZODONT. It will at once arrest decay and prevent what are now, but mere specks from being orifices. In brief it will save and beautify your teeth. And it is the only thing that can save them. Reflect on this.

—POWERFUL NORTHERN LIGHTS.—The telegraph wires between Springfield and Boston were seriously affected by the aurora borealis on Thursday, and messages were transferred during the afternoon by natural electricity wholly, no batteries being used. At Hartford, Wednesday night, the aurora was so vivid as to enable persons to see the time of night on the church clocks after the moon had gone down.

—PETROLEUM NEAR DENVER.—The Denver Gazette says that petroleum has been discovered fifteen miles from that city:

"An extensive area of land, covering an extent of over thirteen acres, as we are informed, is literally saturated with the crude petroleum. One gentleman assures us that the oily ooze can be taken in the hand and the oil wrung from it like a sponge."

—Major-General Prentiss, in Quincy, Ill., thrashed a man who kept company with the General's daughter, against the General's wishes, and was arrested and fined $5 for it. The General's son, who helped, was fined $5, too. Cheap enough.

The Whites and the Blacks in [illegible]. The Jeffersonville Transcript of the [illegible] following, which shows rather a bad state of affairs:

On several occasions of late we have been called upon to record difficulties at Jeffersonville between soldiers and citizens, and in some instances murders of the most diabolical character have been committed by negro soldiers, and as yet no arrests have been made. The repetition of crimes of this kind have had the effect to cause considerable excitement in the little town of Jeffersonville. The feeling of the citizens, as well as white soldiers, against the negro regiment stationed there is intense, and unless the proper steps are taken to put a stop to the ingress of such outrages, we may be called upon to record scenes of blood which have never before disgraced our little sister city. In the Democrat, a few days since, we were compelled to notice the foul murder of a negro [illegible] Jeffersonville and one in the town, a soldier belonging to one of the Indiana regiments, who was killed by a negro guard. We yesterday met several gentlemen who live in Jeffersonville, who related to us the following circumstances, showing that vengeance had, by some person, been wreaked upon two negro soldiers: Monday morning one of this class of persons was found in Port Fulton, pinned to the ground with a bayonet. The person who had killed him left the gun sticking in his body, the bayonet extending through the body into the ground.

On Tuesday morning the body of a dead negro soldier was found in the suburbs of Jeffersonville, shot through the head by some person unknown. Efforts have been made to ferret out the persons who committed the crime, but as yet no clue has been obtained as to the authors.

On Tuesday night a little boy, whose name we were unable to learn, was shot and badly wounded, by one of the members of the negro regiment. The excitement in Jeffersonville is intense, and we hope that the proper authorities will use every effort to quiet matters and protect the citizens of that hitherto quiet little city.

DAILY PROGRESS.

RALEIGH, N. C.

SATURDAY, AUG. 26, 1865.

The County Convention.

The Standard of yesterday says:

"The County Convention will meet here shortly. Delegates will come from the districts in the country, but will the two Raleigh districts be represented? Action must soon be taken in the matter.—Let the Raleigh districts meet and choose [illegible] delegates. It is important that the town be represented as well as the county.—Let all Union men put their shoulders to the wheel, and aid in the matter. We have only one object in view—to harmonize and unite the loyal voters of the county upon a ticket of able and acceptable men. We have no harsh feelings or denunciation for any one who may differ from us as to the practibability of holding a Convention.—We are for the whole party."

We suppose it will be an easy matter to arrange the list of delegates for the town, in fact we think it more than probable that the list has been already made out and only awaits the assembling of a dozen or two of the managers to have it read and "adopted." Adopted it will be, for who will dare say no or dissent to anything the managers may do.

The fact is the loyal voters of the county, in town and country, had no desire for a Convention to nominate candidates, and we have seen no one, now that the call has been made, that seems to manifest the least interest in it.

We think the call to nominate was a mistake. We know it is signed by good, loyal men, but they were induced to take the step by the clamor of a few aspiring tap room demagogues whom they should have denounced and defied. A few professed Unionists, men without influence or ability, were found to be rallying the secession or disaffected element, and some of the really loyal men of the county became frightened, and the call for a county meeting to nominate is the result. That's the whole truth of the matter.

We promised those of our friends who joined in the call that we would abide the action of the nominating convention, and unless it shall appear that it is entirely controlled by the disaffected, the enemies of the Government, we shall do so; but we felt at the time and feel now that the call effectually disposed of us. It was not made as has been intimated by a city paper, to secure our nomination, but to prevent it, and those whose threats and bravado induced our friends to call for a county meeting, had conferred with prominent secessionists and doubtful Unionists in the various sections of the county and perfected their arrangements to have themselves nominated. Without nominations our election was sure, for the ticket that had been recommended by some twelve or fifteen precincts in the county, would have been successful, with or without opposition: but as we have said before, the meeting to nominate was not gotten up for our benefit, but to secure the nomination of those who knew they had no chance before the people in a fair race upon their own merits.

With the general feeling in the county against a County Convention, we do not believe that one fourth of the loyal voters will be represented on Saturday next; and if the ticket that has been suggested by a few secessionists should be put forward, any three loyal men, of ordinary ability, could beat it by a vigorous canvass, at least two to one.

We have already mentioned a number of names we would cheerfully support, and should a ticket be formed from those we have indicated, or of any gentlemen who stood by and voted with them last summer, we will support it; but no man or ticket that appeals to and bargains with the secessionists and disloyal to bring them forward for office can get our vote or support.

It is asserted that the small faction that have been slandering us will put on their ticket, should they succeed in controlling the County Convention, a gentleman who has publicly proclaimed that, under certain circumstances, he would admit the testimony of negroes in the courts. If there is a respectable man in Wake who believes the foul slanders charging us of favoring negro suffrage, he would do well to inquire into the negro testimony report before he denounces those who are loyal and true at the bidding of those who are toadying around secessionists for promotion and support.

There are things connected with this County Convention and the part taken by some who claimed the peculiar custodianship of the party known as the "straitest sect," last summer, that would appear strange if given to the public, but the time for the developments has not come, and it never may. Some persons are wiser, however, if not better, than they were a year ago.

We shall watch the precinct meetings and we shall watch the County Convention, and whatever the result we mean that the world shall know what proportion of the people are represented and the character of their political sympathies. The fact that every secessionist in the county, and every professed Unionist who sympathises with them, was in favor of a Convention, was enough to cause us to oppose it; and we regretted at last to see some of our friends yield to the clamor of a faction that had no claims upon their respect.

The County Convention is to be held next Saturday, one week from to-day, and we venture the assertion, there being no mails, that it will come and be over before many voters in the county will hear of it.

If there ever was a time when the quackery and demagogueism of packed Conventions and cut and dried arrangements should be ignored that time is now, for the people can have no stability, peace or good government as long as they are continued. If none but the loyal citizens of the county are allowed to take part in the County Convention, all may result well, but if a open promise is to be made with the disaffected, perjured enemies of the government, God deliver us from the whole concern.

Soreheads.

Little by little it has leaked out until now it is apparent and admitted on all sides that there is much opposition to the policy of the government in North Carolina, and that many of our citizens deny that slavery is dead. The Standard says:

"Some men say they are opposed to passing an ordinance in the Convention to free the slaves, and say if slavery cannot be retained they intend to try to get pay for them from the government."

True every word of it, but the Standard might have gone further and said that some of those who are aspiring to seats in the Convention in this and other counties hold the same position as to slavery; and that others have boasted on the streets as to how they would punish the negroes when the soldiers shall be withdrawn. Can we expect to get back into the Union if such men compose the Convention?—We hardly think so. Though much poorer, and we hope wiser, ye ancient aristocracy is as arrogant and selfish as ever, and as a general thing would rather rule in hell than serve heaven.—We are profoundly thankful that we are to have brains and moral worth as the basis of an aristocracy, in future, and not nigger.

Major General Schofield.

The return of Major General Schofield to this Department has been looked for by citizens and soldiers for some time past, and his arrival by the 1st of September at farthest, was confidently expected; but the following which appears in the news column of the N. Y. Tribune, puts the matter at rest: Gen. Schofield is not to return:

"Major-General Schofield, who has been breveted as Major-General in the Regular Army, has received two years leave of absence to visit Europe."

While in command of this Department Gen. Schofield gave the most entire satisfaction to all citizens who were well disposed towards the government whose representative he was.

He has borne a conspicuous part in the war against the rebellion, and has well earned both his promotion and leave of absence.

THE northern press is very severe on the letter of Hon. John A. Gilmer. We publish an article from the Times in another column. The fact is those gentlemen in Congress at that time could have saved this state from the traitors of the cotton States and stopped the war in the beginning, had they come home and rallied the people on the side of the Union. The people were all right, the great mass of them, but they had no leaders. Yancey, Davis, Benjamin and their treasonable associates subjugated our leading men, and the people had no one to follow—no one to rally them, and submitted to the will of the tyrants. We could never see any justification for a Union man leaving the halls of Congress because a few fanatics declared themselves out of the Union.

WE publish in this issue an article from the New York Times which contains much solid truth and wholesome advice to the people of the south. The only question for us now is, shall we accept the inexorable logic of events and submit the condition of things as they are, or will we continue to spurn the just and generous officers of the government and thus subject ourselves to martial law and perpetual military rule? It will be folly to expect to get back into the Union if all disaffection be not thoroughly eradicated and the policy of the government accepted in all things.

Davis, Clay and Mitchel.

There is at present nothing new to write of Davis and Clay. Both of them are enjoying the best of health, and are becoming accustomed to their casemate life, agreeably diversified as it is by their daily out-door walks, the perusal of an occasional copy of the Philadelphia Inquirer, and the daily visits of the genial and accomplished man of God, Chaplain Kerfoot. And as their trial is being deferred day after day and week after week, their once severe regimen much ameliorated, these prisoners are laying the flattering unction to their souls that, if ever they should be brought to a tribunal, to answer for their enormous crimes, their sentence will be lenient in the extreme. Ostracism would suit them exceedingly well.

John Mitchel is sick. He has never complained; this dogged ingrate never murmured save once, and that was occasioned by his glimpse of Davis and Clay enjoying their out-door promenade, a privilege denied him. The physician who visits Mitchel daily, notwithstanding his sullenness, has given it as his opinion that Mitchel is laboring under the insidious attacks of pulmonary consumption, and that in a few more weeks he will be prostrated if not allowed out-door exercise and a more generous diet than the soldiers' fare upon which he has hitherto subsisted. On the conscientious representations of the doctor, Mitchel's diet was changed two days ago, and a full and true statement of his physical condition forwarded to the War Department, with the request and recommendation that he too, be allowed the privilege of out-door exercise accorded to Davis and Clay. General Miles has forwarded this humane application. The General does all in his power to mitigate the duress of his important prisoners. He acts under instructions from the War Bureau, and like a true soldier, as he is, he carries out his orders to the letter. Besides the care of the prisoners, General Miles has jurisdiction over the Eastern District of Virginia, the affairs of which he administers to the satisfaction of all loyal men.

[From the New York Times.]

In the South must it be the end, or what Beauty?

Had it chosen, the South could have dictated its own terms of union before the first gun of rebellion. Without any Southern urging, Congress, of its own accord, by an almost unanimous vote, passed its resolution for an amendment of the constitution, guaranteeing perpetual inviolability to slavery in the States. Had it been clear that the South would have been thereby appeased, Congress would have turned itself and its successors to pledge no restrictions upon the extension of slavery into the Territories, and to abide by all the extra-judicial principles of the Dred Scott decision. It is difficult to say what it would not have done in the way of propitiation to avert the war. To have stopped the war after it began, the government at any time during the first twenty-one months—up to the issue of the Emancipation Proclamation—would have saved slavery as it was, and all its old constitutional rights, barring, perhaps, the assumed right of extending itself into the Territories. Even afterwards, up to the very late stage of the war, the rebellion, by agreeing to throw down its arms at once, could have got terms. This is implied in all that President Lincoln said and did in connection with the attempted peace negotiations at Niagara Falls, and in connection with the conference at Hampton Roads. Of course these terms would have been limited; yet had the right spirit been displayed by the South, they might have embraced provisions whereby emancipation would practically have been made gradual, or perhaps, even some compensation given for the loss of the slaves.—The anxiety of the government to stop the dreadful effusion of blood, and the immense drains upon the Treasury, would have impelled it to do the utmost for peace, short of a positive sacrifice of the Union and of emancipation.

The end of this willfulness of the South was that it had to make its submission without terms. The final surrender of the rebellion was unconditional. The government was left entirely to its own discretion to exercise whatever severity or clemency it might please. It has chosen great clemency. It has engaged itself to the most liberal amnesty and pardon, and to the earliest restoration of the Southern States to the full enjoyment of every constitutional power possessed by the other States, if the Southern people will govern themselves by a truly loyal spirit, and show that they will perform in good faith all their constitutional obligations. The government, and all the loyalty of the country, now wait to see what the South will elect to do—whether to reciprocate this liberal spirit, and seriously devote itself to its own regeneration and to the harmony and prosperity of the whole country, or to continue in the perverseness which has already cost it so dear.

As yet, it is impossible to say what the Southern action will be. We only know that both loyal and disloyal influences are struggling for the ascendency there, and that each are expecting to carry the day. It would be far easier to determine how this will turn, if we had only ordinary human nature to calculate upon. Petty piques, vulgar passions, humiliation and misery on the one side: common sense, patriotic duty, good repute and substantial thrift on the other. There could not be much doubt which set of incentives would prevail with the ordinary civilized man. But, unfortunately, the Southern people for generations have been subjected to a peculiar institution, which has so much perverted their hearts and their judgments that it is impossible ever to assume that they will act wisely and rightly, as the best motives prompt. It is a law of our being that long association with a great evil not only vitiates the conscience, but darkens the understanding; and it is morally impossible that the Southern people should have been so long exposed to the influences of such an institution as slavery without being prodigiously injured in these respects. Their lack of wisdom has been shown in the fact that they have never attempted to do anything for their institution which did not recoil against it. They undertook in the beginning to put down agitation by attacking the right of petition and freedom of speech, and the result was the enlargement of the area of freedom with California and all the territory acquired from Mexico. They undertook to make Kansas a slave State by the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, and the result was all the territory south of the line of that compromise was open to freedom. They undertook to get from the Supreme Court an extra-judicial political decision that slavery had a constitutional right to all the territories, and the result was a political revolution against slavery, without precedent in the history of the country. They undertook to break up the Union that they might establish a confederacy, the cornerstone of which should be slavery, and the result is the absolute annihilation of slavery. How they showed this want of judgment at different stages of the rebellion, in not getting the terms they might, we have already noted. It is not possible for any one who remembers these facts, to take it for granted that the South will now shape its action in accordance with its highest duties and best interests.

With all our soul we hope that the South will now at last gain and practice wisdom. The whole Northern people are yearning to bury the past, and to join the South in cementing a closer and more blessed Union than ever. The same feeling inspires all the words and acts of the government. But both the government and the Northern people are helpless, so far as relates to the Southern reciprocation of this spirit. If the Southern people will still persist in shutting their eyes to their true interests, and in making themselves their own worst enemies, there is no earthly way to prevent it.—We sometimes see accounts of a spirit manifesting itself in some parts of the South, which make us apprehend that they will oblige the government to retain military rule over them for months, and, perhaps, even years to come. The government certainly cannot restore to them the full exercise of their constitutional powers, until it is morally certain that they attach a binding obligation to the oath of allegiance which they are taking, and will faithfully conform all their political action to its letter and spirit. Until the government can be assured of their consistent loyalty, it is bound to take care that they shall be in no condition to do mischief.—It is not in the power of the government to infuse genuine loyalty into them against their own disposition and purpose; but it is in its power to disable disloyalty. It has the means of bringing every amount of repression upon them that can possibly be required. The loyal people of the land will sustain it in using these means to any extent that may be necessary. It would be madness in the South to force the government to any such stern policy. The result could only be its being cast into deeper humiliation and misery than ever. Enough has already been sacrificed to the spirit of perverseness. Now that the South is rid forever of its old evil genius of slavery, which used so to befool it, let it at once gather up its natural sense and turn square round into the plain path of duty and interest.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH.—A correspondent of the Newberry Times of the 24th says:

Yesterday a human skeleton was discovered in the woods South of Trent river settlements, which proved on investigation to be those of a negro named Leonard Hatch, a late employee in the Quartermaster's Department, who has been missing since the month of June.

The remains were identified by means of the clothing and coloreh near by which he is known to have worn. The manner of his death is unknown.

LETTER FROM JEFF. DAVIS' FARM.

THE TRIAL OF MR. JEFF. DAVIS—WHEN THEY ARE TO BE MADE QUIETER.

A telegram dated from Albany, August 24 says:

R. H. Gillett, one of the counsel for Jefferson Davis, in a note to the Albany Argus, says Mr. Davis has no more information as to when he will be tried than others have.

In a letter from Davis, dated the 12th inst., to Gillett, he says: "I am still ignorant of the charges against me and the sources of them; neither the tribunal before which I am to appear, nor the latter gave me the first notice of the Winchester indictment." Davis requests Gillett to have a consultation with Chas. O'Conor, his counsel named, so that they may be prepared for the trial as soon as it is brought on, and with as little delay as the nature and importance of the case will permit.

A direct application to the proper department, asking to be informed when and before what tribunal Davis is to be tried, remains unanswered, because, it is supposed, neither has been actually determined by the President.

Letter from Gen. Joseph E. Johnston.

The Fredericksburg Ledger gives the following timely and patriotic letter from Gen. Johnston:

We publish below the following letter from this man of brains and bravery. We commend its perusal and the sentiment it inculcates to every man who desires the peace and prosperity of the Commonwealth:

BUFFALO SPRINGS,
Mecklenburg County, Va.,
July 17, 1865.

You ask my "views of the future course and future interests of us all." The case is so plain that very little can be said or written upon it. We of the South referred the question at issue between us and the United States to the arbitrament of the sword. The decision has been made—and it is against us. We must acquiesce in that decision, accept it as final and recognize the fact that Virginia is again one of the United States. Our duties and interests coincide. We shall consult the one and perform the other by doing all we can to promote the welfare of our neighbors and kindred, and to restore the prosperity of the country. We should at once commence the duties of peaceful citizens by entering upon some useful pursuit, qualifying ourselves to vote, if possible—and at the polls our votes should be cast for conservative men—men who understand and will maintain the interests of Virginia as one of the United States.

This is the course which I have recommended to all those with whom I have conversed on the subject and is that which I have adopted for myself, as far as practicable.

Very truly yours,
J. E. JOHNSTON.

MR. DAVIS' HOME.

A letter to the Vicksburg (Miss.) Journal, describes "Davis's Bend," the former home of Jefferson Davis. The house is a spacious cottage, a mile from the river, with verandahs on all sides. It is a "post" of the Freedmen's Bureau. Of the seven thousand acres on the farm, four thousand are in cultivation, and will yield about three thousand bales of cotton, besides potatoes, &c. The farm, though two years in occupation, is not self-sustaining, and over one thousand rations are still issued there. This looks like poor management.

The Feeling in Charleston.

The Springfield Republican, discussing the reports from the South, says:

We are assured by a gentleman from Charleston, who has been there for some months, and has had every opportunity for free intercourse with all classes of people, that most of the reports sent North as to demonstrations of a malignant and rebellious feeling by the people are false; that the intelligent and influential classes comprehend the real situation of affairs, and are disposed to conform to it and willing to submit in silence to many wrongs, and indignities rather than obstruct in any way the process of reorganization; that there is no hope and no desire to perpetuate slavery either in form or substance, and that the freedmen would do much better if they could be relieved of the influence of some of their impulsive and fanatical advisers from the North, such as the Englishman Redpath, and his associates."

TO THE LOYAL VOTERS OF THE UNION PARTY IN WAKE COUNTY.

FELLOW CITIZENS:—

It is apparent that the canvass now progressing in this county among friends of gentlemen whose names are before the people for the Convention, will be of a bitter and most unpleasant nature.

In saying this, we cast no reflection upon gentlemen who are candidates, or their supporters. But this is an hour for unity and peace! The safety, the welfare, the prosperity of our State depends upon the selection of acceptable, loyal and able men. Let not the citizens of Wake fail of their duty. Therefore, let them seek about and adopt those measures which are best calculated to quiet the public mind, and adjust the conflicting interests of our friends and those who have hitherto been friends among themselves. In other words, we desire to solidify and strengthen the Union party in this county and achieve a triumph for it at the approaching election.

We submit to you therefore, the propriety of immediately assembling a County Convention, each district thereof to be represented by the best citizens, and proceed to nominate a ticket. We think that any one can see and all that we can desire is a full Convention. In order to secure this indispensable personality, let district meetings be held at once to choose delegates for that purpose. Let those delegates then assemble in Convention in Raleigh, the 1st Saturday in September next, and proceed to nominate candidates. A ticket thus formed, we trust, will be acceptable to the masses of our honest and patriotic people.

We repeat, fellow-citizens, that we do not desire to injure the prospects of any one, but are looking only to the best interests of our party and our country. We appeal to you, therefore, to act speedily, and immediately upon the receipt of this, or as soon thereafter as possible, to hold your district meetings and appoint your delegates.—The election is near at hand, and unless we act promptly it will find us disorganized and torn by conflicting issues and factions.

REAL ESTATE AGENCY.

REAL ESTATE AGENCY.

NORTH CAROLINA ADVERTISER

THE UNDERSIGNED HAVE ESTABLISHED in the City of Raleigh, an Agency, for the purpose of buying and selling Real Estate in North Carolina. In connection therewith, and as auxiliary thereto, they will publish a double sheet, twenty-four column weekly newspaper, wherein will be advertised, free of cost, all lands offered for sale through their agency, and which will be devoted to the dissemination of information concerning the agricultural, mineral, manufacturing and other resources of the State. By means of competent Agents in every county they will show the present advantages and special capabilities for future development of each. It will be found, on investigation, that no State in the Union can present such a combination of advantages. North Carolina, situated midway between the cold regions of the North and the more tropical climes of the South, its land stretching from the sea-coast to the mountains, yield bountiful returns of cotton, tobacco, rice, grain, fruits, pasturage, grapes and other products, while in its bosom lie rich mines of gold and iron, copper, lead, coal, and other minerals, its rivers afford water power sufficient for the most extensive factories, and in its forests are boundless supplies of naval stores, timber and materials for tanning. Under the recent change in the system of labor it becomes the interest of proprietors to part with portions of their real estate, and it is the object of this enterprise, through agencies in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, and other chief cities, to bring these abundant resources of the State to the notice of men of energy and capital, to get together these two, and to aid in starting North Carolina in a career of prosperity heretofore unknown.

The ADVERTISER will be furnished free of charge to all customers, and to others at One Dollar per annum. The first number will be issued by the first of July, sooner, if the type and necessary material already ordered, can be procured from New York before that time. Those desiring to advertise in the first number will please communicate to the undersigned at once. Moderate commissions will be charged where sales are made.

GRANT.

THE HERO OF THE WAR AT HOME.

The People Welcome Him.

Gen. Grant arrived at his home in Galena a few days ago. We find in a New York paper an interesting account of the run from Chicago to Galena, but only have room for the following:

HOME, SWEET HOME.

All business is suspended in the city of Galena. Gen. Grant returns to the only home he has.—Flags float everywhere. Across Main St. from the corner of the De Soto Hotel, from the different windows of which float 180 flags, stretches a beautiful triumpal arch. On one side, reaching across the top, are these words:

"Welcome to our citizen.

Weldon Railroad,	Fair Oaks,
Wilderness,	Petersburg,
Richmond,	Five Forks."

On the other side:

"Hail to the Chief who in triumph advances.

Belmont,	Lookout Mountain,
Donelson,	Chattanooga,
Shiloh,	Vicksburg,
Corinth,	Appamattox C. H."

The whole is decorated with flags, streamers and evergreens in the most beautiful manner. This arch is but a few doors from the store where the General used to sell leather.

A GIFT.

On a hill, about an eighth of a mile from the town, and overlooking the river and a vast country, including most of the town is a beautiful residence which the citizens have purchased for the General. I give a description of it, handed to me by one who has dared to stand up alone in the cause of freedom when it cost something to do so. The house is on an acre of ground, the highest and most sightly around the city.—The loyal citizens did not wait for a Copperhead City government to build sidewalks, but built them themselves from the depot to the house, which cost $11,500, purchased by a few of the friends and neighbors of the Lt. General.

It is a large brick, square, two stories, cellar under the whole, with rock bottom. On the lower story are a large parlor and large dining-room and library, kitchen, servants' room, store-room, &c.—The upper story has six rooms—the General's family room and bath-room adjoining, a spare room and three other good sized rooms. Everything is new, in admirable order, and furnished in good taste.—Haughwout & Co., Broadway, New York, are represented in the house by a splendid set of glassware and a coat-of-arms for the Lieutenant-General.—The Bigelow Carpet Company of New York are represented by a magnificent Brussels carpet for the parlor, and M. H. Simpson of the Roxbury, Mass., Carpet Company is represented in all of the chambers by his carpets. A good story is told of Simpson. The Hon. B. Washburn, when recently in Boston purchasing furniture, went to Mr. S. to buy the carpets, and told him it was for the General's house. Mr. Simpson said nothing could be bought of him for this purpose, but they should go and select what was wanted, even if of velvet.

I was conducted through the whole house.—Nothing is lacking. The beds are ready and made up, the hired help is on hand; they even had the stove heated, and all things are ready. The view from the house is most beautiful, and from different windows differs. From one is a scene of woods and shrubbery; from another, the river between the hills, quite similar to a Hudson River scene; from another is the town and the heights beyond, where the General used to live in a rented house on $480 a year; from another, are the heights beyond the Mississippi, in Iowa, distant seven or eight miles in a straight line. The place being new, there are no shade trees, but it is thought there will be time to make shade by the time the General needs them.

THE WELCOME HOME.

This morning I went out to Rockford with the delegation which was to meet the General. On arriving, we waited a short time, when the train came. There was a large gathering, and a stand tastefully built and ornamented with beautiful flowers. Mr. Washburn presented the delegation, and there was a cordial shaking of hands. I cannot help remarking that one of this body had been a business man on the street near where the General had been a clerk, and yet he did not recollect of having ever seen him. After a short pause, in which Mr. Washburn made a spirited address, and the General one of two or three line speeches, when the train started. It consisted of four sumptuous passenger cars. Gen. Grant, family, staff and friends occupied what I believe is called a saloon car; there are no common seats; instead, are sofas and easy chairs. A center table was covered with flowers.

Refreshments, consisting of divers cold dishes, cakes, fruits and teas, were handed around in great profusion. In the forward car were choice wines and cigars. It was a rare honor that the Presidents, Vice Presidents and General Superintendents of most of the Railroads coming into Chicago were aboard.

Everywhere on the road the people came out till near Galena. The city was reached at 3 o'clock, p. m. The approaches to the station were thronged with people. Cannons roared, bands played and the crowds cheered. Carriages were ready, and a procession was formed. After a short march the stand was reached, and Mr. Washburn welcomed General Grant home. On first coming to the stand, General Grant acknowledged the cheers by bowing and giving a pleasant and modest smile. At the conclusion he spoke a few words, simply thanking the people, as on other occasions. It was expected he would make a speech here, at least. The Rev. J. H. Vincent of Chicago spoke for him in a few eloquent words.

After this, Gen. Grant and his family were driven to the new house on the hill. As they were about to enter, the bells in the churches on the hills and in the valleys began joyfully to ring. To Gen. Grant this ringing properly is the end of the war, and a rejoicing for peace.

To this stage of the hero's life history does not furnish an example of any other man who has been so successful in a righteous cause. Ring on, bells! you proclaim the dawn of a new day for the laboring

Gen. Grant is still a thoughtful man. When he speaks he lets down his words and [illegible]. Born [illegible] may be has not forgotten Mexico. If [illegible] seems to estimate his character; indeed, very little is known.

In a wide-brimmed [illegible] hat, and in clothes a little too large, and with a slouch gait, one knows not what to say. My impression is that he will prove to be a man to be heard of [illegible].

CONVENTION CANDIDATES.

OFFICE CHIEF QUARTERMASTER,
DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
RALEIGH, August 14th, 1865.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at this office until 12 o'clock M. on Tuesday, September 5th, 1865, for the purchase of a large number of Horses, Mules, Wagons and Harness.

Horses and Mules will be put aside in lots of 12, 24, and 48, each; the Wagons in lots of 2, 4 and 8 each; and the Harness in lots of 12, 24 and 48 single setts, each. Proposals will only be considered for the whole of each separate lot.

A number of Four-Mule and Six-Mule Teams, with Harness and Wagons, will also be set aside at each point named, and proposals received for single Teams, with the Wagons and Harness complete.

Proposals should be addressed to the undersigned, at Raleigh; and should be endorsed—"proposals for the purchase of public property."

The right is reserved to reject all bids that may be offered.

Successful bidders will be notified in person or by telegraph; and will be required to remove the property on or before September 8th.

NEW SKIRT FOR 1865.

The Great Invention of the Age in Hoop Skirts.

J. W. BRADLEY'S NEW PATENT DUPLEX ELLIPTIC, (OR DOUBLE) SPRING SKIRT.

THIS INVENTION CONSISTS OF DUPLEX (OR two) Elliptic Pure Refined Steel Springs, ingeniously braided tightly and firmly together, edge to edge, making the toughest, most flexible, elastic and durable Spring ever used. They seldom bend or break, like the single Springs, and consequently preserve their perfect and beautiful shape more than twice as long as any Single Spring Skirt that ever has or can be made.

The wonderful flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any Lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded Assemblies, Opera, Carriages, Railroad Cars, Church Pews, Arm-Chairs, for Promenade and House Dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a Silk or Muslin Dress.

A Lady having Enjoyed the Pleasure, Comfort and Great Convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For Children, Misses and Young Ladies they are superior to all others.

The Hoops are covered with 3 ply double twisted thread and will wear twice as long as the single yarn covering which is used on all Single Steel Hoop Skirts. The three bottom rods on every Skirt are also Double Steel, and twice or double covered to prevent the covering from wearing off the rods when dragging down stairs, stone steps, &c., &c., which they are constantly subject to when in use.

All are made of the new and elegant Corded Tapes, and are the best quality in every part, giving to the wearer the most graceful and perfect shape possible, and are unquestionably the lightest, most desirable, comfortable and economical Skirt ever made.

WEBB, BRADLEY & CARY, (late J. I. & J. O. Webb,) Proprietors of the Invention, and sole manufacturers, 97 Chambers and 79 & 81 Reade Streets, New York.

For sale in all first-class stores in this City, and throughout the United States and Canada, Havana de Cuba, Mexico, South America and the West Indies.

THE WIRZ TRIAL.

Very unexpectedly to nearly everybody, a temporary stay of proceedings in the trial of Captain Wirz, keeper of the Andersonville rebel prison pen, was ordered in the military court in Washington on Tuesday. On the opening of the court the prisoner's counsel proceeded to argue in favor of the motion to quash the charges and specifications, on the ground that they are too general and uncertain, and that the offences charged are not cognisable by military, but by civil law. This motion was overruled, when Wirz was arraigned and pleaded not guilty. After some further remarks by the members of court and the counsel, it was ordered that the prisoner be remanded to the Old Capitol and that the court adjourn, which was immediately carried into effect. In answer to the protest of the accused's counsel to these proceedings, and a request to know to what time the adjournment took place, the Judge Advocate stated that due notice would be given, and requested the witnesses to inform the court of their residences, and instructed them not to leave the city until properly discharged. The reason for this adjournment has not been made public; but a rumor has gained currency that there are to be some changes made in the charges and specifications against Wirz.

THE CABLE.

The Herald of the 28d says:

By the arrival of the steamships Borussia and City of Baltimore at this port yesterday, and the receipt of our files by the steamship Belgian, which reached Father Point on Sunday last, we have details from Europe to the 10th inst.

The speculations of the English papers on the cause of the cable failure possess considerable interest. It appears to have been the general opinion that the loss of insulation which startled the electricians on the 2d inst. was caused by the magnetic storm previously alluded to, and not by any fault or defect in the cable itself, and that, had the Great Eastern proceeded on her journey instead of turning back to cut out the supposed flaw, the cable might long before have been safely laid and in working order.

Nothing discouraged by this failure, the cable company have set about repairing the loss; but it is said that no renewal of the operations will be attempted during the present season. How far this resolution will be changed by the advices which the Great Eastern has by this time borne to Valentia remains to be seen. The money loss to the company by the failure is estimated at one million dollars. Some singular facts as to the bargain struck by the company are stated by a correspondent of the London Star. If the cable succeeded, the owners of the Great Eastern were to receive two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and nothing if it failed. Had the attempt proved a success, the Great Eastern would have been purchased by the cable company, and no fewer than six lines would have been laid between Ireland and America.

TROOPS TO BE MUSTERED OUT.

It is said that twenty-nine thousand additional troops are to be immediately mustered out of service, as follows:—From the Middle Department, six thousand; Department of Washington, eight thousand; Kentucky five thousand; North Carolina, eight thousand; Mississidpi, two thousand.

The following is the Constitutional amendment

MISSISSIPPI ADOPTS THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

The Mississippi Constitutional Convention, now in session at Jackson, has adopted the amendment to the constitution prohibiting slavery in the State, and providing for the passage by the Legislature of laws to protect the freedmen and secure them in the possession of their liberty and rights.

passed by the Convention. The vote was 86 to 11.

The institution of slavery having been destroyed in the State of Mississippi, neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, otherwise than for the punishment of crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall hereafter exist in this State; and the Legislature, at its next session, and thereafter as the public welfare may require, shall provide by law for the protection and security of the persons and property of the freedmen of the State, and guard them and the State against any evil that may arise from their sudden emancipation.

PARDONS.

A rule was adopted Tuesday by Mr. Pleasants, pardon clerk in the Attorney General's office, limiting the hours of receiving personal applications on business connected with pardons, from nine to eleven in the forenoon. Mr. Speed will receive visitors from eleven to one. After these hours all persons will be denied admission. The crowds that daily congregate in the rooms and ante-rooms of the Attorney General's office are increasing instead of diminishing, and, without some such restriction, bid fair to monopolize business hours with long and unnecessary explanations. Hereafter the clerical work of the Pardon Bureau can be completed in business hours, free from the annoyance and solicitations that have constantly embarrassed it.

A new leaf has also been turned over at the White House. A certain feminine habitue of the East Room and lobbies, who is generally understood to have been engaged in the pardon brokerage business, was to-day refused permission to ascend the stairway or further importune the President. Visitors to the Presidential mansion have not missed the familiar features of the fair literateur a single day for many weeks. The rule that gives every one daily access to the White House will, in her case, be more honored in the breach than the observance.

THE DESTITUTION OF THE SOUTH.

The Washington Chronicle of Tuesday says:—From the special Provost Marshal of the War Department, who has just returned from a brief trip through some of the Southern States, where he went on official business, we have full confirmation of the reports which have recently come from those localities of the utter destitution of the South, and of the idesire of the people at large to submit cheerfully to the government of the United States. From all accounts it appears that if a fair expression of public opinion can be obtained at the coming elections in the South there will be little difficulty in the work of reorganization.

AT WASHINGTON.

Major-Generals Schofield and Meade were at Washington Tuesday.

MR. ALEX. H. STEPHENS.

The President has ordered the commander of Fort Warren to do all in his power to render Alex. H. Stephens, the distinguished prisoner in his possession, as comfortable as possible.

COLORED TROOPS—REGULAR ARMY.

A Washington dispatch says:

There is good authority for stating that all the colored troops now in the service are soon to be mustered out. The idea that they would be retained as a part of the regular army is erroneous. They form simply a provisional Corps, which will be discontinued in a few months.

The number of white troops retained to constitute the Regular Army, will number 125,000 men.

GOLD, STOCKS, &c.

The stock market was extremely dull and rather heavy yesterday. Government securities were strong. Gold was a fraction lower, closing at 143¾ on the street

The commercial status remained unchanged yesterday, and, with a steady gold market, the merchandise markets were without marked change. A fair business was done in most articles, both foreign and domestic, and generally at steady prices. The movement in breadstuffs were much less active, while prices were irregular. State flour was higher. Wheat was lower. Corn, oats, provisions and whiskey were unchanged. Cotton was firm.

GOVERNMENT PROPERTY IN THE
STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA.
AUCTION SALES OF HORSES, MULES, ARMY Wagons, Spring Wagons, Harness and other government property will take place from time to time at the principal cities and towns in the State.
